

1) Movies vs Books:

I think movies are best thing to visualise the character or seeing the heroic character and feels like that was me and the story was held around me. Yesterday I watched the movie called 'Seven' by David Fincher. It is the wonderful story narration also I like the Brad Pitt character, he was like a cool and young detective to solve a crime. I really loved this film. I am not too against the books, but literally I don't like it and also I have no patience to sit and read a story in whole day but the movie teach you in 2-3 hrs with best narration. Also, the theory was proposed like which we have seen is our best memory to store in our brain instead of speaking or reading. Here I concluded, that the movies are the favourite thing to mine.
